

Trade fair opens Thursday

Upwards of 5,000 people are expected to attend the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce second annual trade fair this weekend.

Optimism for this year's trade fair was evident from the day the curtain went down on last year's effort. Co-organizers Kristina Little and Martin Prentice had little trouble in filling up the spaces.

This weekend's trade fair to be held in the Centennial Civic Arena and the adjacent curling rink will feature 107 booths and 92 exhibitors. Only 79 exhibitors participated last year.

The extra number of booths and exhibitors plus the planning which went into this year's presentation is expected to draw 5,000 people after 2,000 people visited the three-day show last year.

The Trade Fair will open on Friday from 8 to 9 p.m., on Saturday from noon to 9 p.m., and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Admission is $1 each with seniors and children under 12 entering for fifty cents.

Eighty-two booths will be set up in the arena with six larger displays in the curling rink and four others in the arena parking lot.

Besides viewing all the new and exciting products, trade fair exhibitors will be eligible for three major prizes.

Crosswinds Travel are putting up a Trip to Disneyland as the major prize with a $1,000 bill up for grabs and a $500 voucher good at any of the participating trade fair businesses.

The Kiewit will run concession booths at the trade fair.

Consortium open house

The Femina Educational Consortium in Drayton Valley will hold an open house tomorrow (Thursday) from 1 to 5 p.m.

Everyone who will be taking courses through the consortium, or those seeking information, are welcome.

Staff will be available to supply both program information and financial assistance information.

Barrett is fifth in the world

Bretton's Rod Barrett placed fifth at the world armwrestling championships in Detroit, Michigan last weekend.

The Canadian champion lost out in the quarter finals to Eddie Long of the U.S., the world champion two years ago. However, Long had to settle for third place this year as 21-year-old John Brink, another American, won the world title in the 220 pound class. Brink was somewhat of a surprise in the class as he usually pulls in the 193 pound class but moved up to the 220 weight class for the worlds.

Barrett, who went into the world championships seeded fifth, was pleased with his effort against Long. Long fouled shortly into the match, but on the re-start won it all when the Bretton armwrestler tired.

Besides achieving his personal best at the worlds, Barrett was joined by six other Canadians in winning the team trophy by a comfortable 12 points.

Prior to competing at the worlds, Barrett won a Canadian championship in the 220-pound class, repeating a feat he first won in '82. His fifth place this year is much better than the disqualification he had to live with after the worlds in '83.

Tomahawk gets a new fire hall

The County of Parkland has authorized construction of a new fire hall at Tomahawk.

Total expenditure for the project is not to exceed $120,000.

Council decided at a recent meeting to go with the lowest bidder for construction of the hall and water well.

The lowest bid on the building was $92,000 by Shaul Construction of Stony Plain.

The bid for the water well, storage tank, chain link fence, gates, cement ramps and gas line extension was another $28,000.

The additional money authorized over and above the amount bid will allow leeway for probable unknown costs.

Fire Chief Ray Saunders had indicated there might be some hidden costs in the project because he didn't know what the charge for fill or gravel for the front of the hall would be when he drew up the estimates.

Administrator Otto Schuster told council $40,000 had been budgeted for the fire hall this year.

He suggested the county finance the remainder of the project with a short-term loan over a three year period.

If council was able to find money in the budget next year to cover the total cost it could pay off the loan, he said.

Feline fuss in Whitecourt

Cat-owners beware! Once the town's proposed domestic animal bylaw is passed (it's passed two of the required three readings so far), you will no longer be allowed to let your cat outside without a leash - unless it's trained to stay in the yard, that is.

Dogs have their own bylaw, so Bylaw 723 has been brought up to deal with sheep, chickens, horses, cows, etc., and of course cats, though they aren't mentioned by name.

According to the bylaw, the town will "make available" cat traps to anyone wanting to capture those pesky felines digging up their gardens.

This seems a pretty dirty trick. Figures aren't available as to Whitecourt's actual cat population, but there must be a fair number judging from the quantity of dead ones one sees along the highway.

Cats that have been allowed to roam at large their entire lives are going to go stir crazy being locked indoors (because it doesn't seem realistic to compel them to stay in the yard - and it's easier said than done to teach an old cat to walk with a harness and leash.)

Third reading of the bylaw is Sept. 9, and concerned citizens may then appear before council to express their views, provided they make arrangements in advance.

Zimmerman shows dedication with ball

Before the ball season is officially over, a tip of the 'hat' to Stan Zimmerman.

Zimmerman, who is employed by Mid-Continent Supply, organized the 24-team Drayton Valley slow pitch league.

He was also a colorful part of that league, as any who hit one of his special grapefruit balls will swear to.

What's really amazing about this individual, is his dedication to sports. Because of ties with teams in Edmonton, he works in Drayton Valley, organizes and plays slow pitch and drives home to Edmonton every night of the week. When he wasn't playing ball here, he was coaching teams in the city.

Zimmerman would like to move his family here. And, from what we know of the man's talents, the community would welcome him on a full time basis. Hear that Chad, Bruce and Claire?

For those who were wondering out loud about the Taber corn stand...they had to pay a licence fee. Town manager Manny Deol says the cost is $25 per day or $200 per year for dealers of this nature.

We will be watching the next set of Red

Cross lessons at this Park Valley pool with interest. It will be interesting to see what instruction is given to the kids who are paying $3 per hour for lessons. That's what the 10 half-hour lessons at $15 works out to.

Pool manager Charlene Jenkins has assured us and the other concerned parents that two instructors per eight or 10 kids will be common during the lessons. If that's to be the case, the kids should get full value for their money.

The Park Valley pool continues to have problems with their rope. It was originally put in to take the place of a diving board. The delay in getting it back, is apparently a designer problem.

Teddy Bear

Owner's nickname for restaurant

By Lorne Christensen

For most people the words teddy bear brings back memories of their childhood and their stuffed animal friends.

But for many local truckers and oilmen the words teddy bear mean something else—good food.

Inside the Teddy Bear Restaurant.

The Teddy Bear Restaurant located at Alsiike has been open five years and attracts mainly the truckers and oilmen, according to owner Ted Bearchell.

The name for the restaurant is a nickname he has had "since he was little."

Bearchell says "mostly truckers and service personnel" and "a lot of locals" eat at the restaurant which serves about 300 people daily.

He adds his "mainstay" is repeat customers although they do get "their share of tourists."

"Breakfast and dinner are our big times, but being on the highway you can never tell," he explains.

"Supper time from 5:30 to 10 p.m. can be just devastating too," Bearchell pointed out.

The restaurant holds about 80 people and Bearchell said they just expanded their seating by 40 seats for buffet style meals.

The Teddy Bear Restaurant has also expanded their menu to include fried chicken; ribs and a salad bar.

Bearchell says the new items have "gone over very well because they were needed in the area."

With the expansion also comes more work. Bearchell puts in about 12 hours a day in his "seven-day-a-week job."

They open at 6:30 a.m. in the morning and go to 11 p.m. in the summer months and in the winter they begin at 6:30 a.m. and go to 10 p.m.

Bearchell and his wife Irene have about 15 staff and they have been in the restaurant business 11 years.

"Actually it's a person's dream to get a place like this," Bearchell said.

And his dream has taken off.

It seems like every time we turn around we are adding something new," he says, adding the business has far exceeded their expectations.

Business has been so good they need to expand their parking lot. This is one of the reasons Bearchell doesn't think they will be expanding the restaurant again for a while until the parking problems are solved.

"I can't see it expansion in the near future," he adds.

For now he vows to continue with their basic philosophy.

"We sure try and make it so no one goes away hungry."

730 hives

Alsiike bee farmer keeps busy with job

By Lorne Christensen

Peter Heinrichs is as busy as a bee. But he doesn't mind the "seven days-a-week, 24 hour-a-day" job because he is a bee farmer.

Heinrichs has almost 730 hives in the Alsiike area, making him one of the largest bee farmers locally.

The "family operation" not only keeps him busy but also his son and his wife.

But on damp days he gets a break from his busy schedule.

"I take it easy on rainy days," he explains saying the bees are not as active.

Heinrichs points out he works usually from the "early morning hours" to "late at night."

He adds he extracts the honey from the hives while his wife and son collect it.

Once the honey has been extracted from the cones it goes into a separator to remove the cone wax mixed in with it.

Heinrichs stores his honey in two 5,000 pound barrels before shipping it to the Co-op in Edmonton. During the summer he says he makes two trips a day into Edmonton with the product.

But this year hasn't been a great year for production according to Heinrichs.

He blames the "grasshoppers and drought together" on the production of about 100 to 110 pounds of honey per hive.

"I blame it more on the grasshoppers, they eat the blossoms," Heinrichs explained.

Last year they averaged between 130 and 150 pounds of honey per hive. He adds that this area "should be paradise for bees if the weather is good."

But besides having problems with the weather and other insects bee farmers are faced with dropping honey prices.

Heinrichs pointed out they had two or three years with good prices but lately the prices have been going down.

In addition to this the costs continue rising. Hives are worth about $100, according to Heinrichs.

Some of the other problems bee farmers are faced with include wintering their bees. This involves feeding the bees over the winter with sugar and wrapping the hives in paper.

Heinrichs also winters his queens. He has for the last three years and says "it's better than buying" them.

Honey was removed from the hives.

Heinrichs has been living just west of the Alsiike corner since 1963 when he moved up from Lethbridge and bought the bee operation.

Since he bought it, "the bee farm has grown considerably."

"It's just about too big for the three of us," Heinrichs explains.

Despite being one of the largest bee farmers in the area Heinrichs says he enjoys a good relationship with the other local bee keepers.

"We stay out of each other's hair," he says adding that they have enough room between hives not to bother the other keepers.

Heinrichs says the local people are also receptive to having his bees on their farms.

He points out they get about one-third more seed because of the bees and also get a pall of honey for their troubles.

"It's when they get stung a few times and then they get annoyed."

Peter Heinrichs stands beside some of his many hives and the supply of sugar he has for the winter.

Leduc Board of Education speaks out

New county will seriously hurt education

In response to the Drayton Valley Area Municipal Feasibility Study, the County of Leduc Board of Education maintains its position that the establishment of a new municipality or county would seriously disrupt the delivery of educational services in our entire county.

It is our contention that when new political entities are created on the basis of economic considerations only, the impact on people far outstrips the logic of financial considerations. As a matter of fact, given the present debate as to the distribution of power and pipeline revenue on a equalized basis throughout the province, the very premise of financial feasibility, is tenuous.

The County of Leduc is still in the process of stabilizing after the severance of the City of Leduc from its jurisdiction. The total impact of this severance will not be known for five years. At present, however, it is obvious that losing the City has hampered the delivery of educational services for the County.

The economy of numbers that a larger system permits is seriously curtailed in the present County of Leduc system. There are fewer students, as the need for special resource people - psychologists, speech therapists, and other specialists becomes a financial burden to the County. While the need for these specialists still exists, the ability to pay is spread amongst fewer people.

To lose the west end of the County would produce further reduction in services to those students remaining within the County. Furthermore, small high schools, in order to fulfill a minimum of educational needs must have a certain number of teachers.

In our particular instance, we have determined that 12 teachers are required to deliver a junior-senior high school program. We contend that we are more than adequately delivering a fine educational service in these communities.

To alter in any way the school attendance area for Breton or Lindale would severely handicap any system in its attempts to deliver an adequate educational service. For the County of Leduc

Letters

Board of Education to lose any more people would detract from this system's ability to utilize the whole school, and the whole system as far as programming and special needs are concerned.

During the past year and a half, school boards throughout the province have been debating the distribution of power and pipeline revenues. Those jurisdictions without these revenues contend that power and pipeline funds should be distributed equally to all school jurisdictions. While these sources of revenue do not alter income to municipal budgets, they generously assist school board budgets. To base the economic feasibility of a municipality on the premise that power and pipeline revenues will permit a healthy budget for that new municipality is faulty. It is our contention that the power and pipeline debate be settled before the formation of a new municipality be considered. Furthermore, the estimate that we would lose 20 per cent of our assessment and 17.5 per cent of our costs will require careful substantiating evidence (P.5-10 and P.5-11).

The study (P.5-8) suggests that utilization of school facility space, and school staff resources are below capacity as a result of the 1975 government directive to send students to Drayton Valley. It is our contention that our utilization of facility space is also hinged on School Building Board formulas. There are several schools in the County of Leduc that should be written off for utilization purposes. This has not been done by the School Buildings Board, thus the County suffers throughout where other schools are built or modernized. To suggest that by losing Breton or Lindale the County would benefit is begging the point. To quote the study's figures "the present county-wide utilization capacity is 78.7 per cent. If the latter (Breton and Lindale) were part of another jurisdiction Leduc County level would increase to 78.8 per cent." To lose two schools for a 1 per cent increase in utilization capacity is ludicrous.

SUMMARY STATEMENTS

1. We prefer that the boundaries stay as they are.
2. We do not want to lose Lindale School, nor do we want to lose enrolment in Breton Schools.
3. Breton and Lindale Schools are an integral part of our system. We are proud of these schools, staffs and the community involvement.

Festival support

Dear Editor:

On July 27, we attended the Easyford Loxey's Festival. We were impressed with the family oriented activities and the organization involved. It's not often these days that you can go to an all day event and not have to spend money every time you turn around.

We have heard rumors that the event will not be held anymore due to poor attendance. We hope they don't give up quite yet, as we certainly appreciated the effort put into the day.

Regardless of what happens next year, we would like to thank all the people who worked so hard to make the day fun, and who provided the wonderful supper. Keep up the good work!

Sincerely,
Grace Mitchell

Cripps commented: "Local traffic in the Carleton Place will appreciate this improvement project. The ex-

Moore added: "This is a spot improvement project. Along with the new culvert structure, we will be improving the alignment and raising the grade at this site. Completion is scheduled for the winter of 1965."

Celebrity golfers swing away for handicapped people

The first annual Cowboy Flett Charity Golf Classic was a big success according to organizers.

The event held last Wednesday at the Drayton Valley golf course raised over $4,500 for the local handicapped association.

Ninety golfers including several members of the Edmonton Oilers participated in the day-long Texas Scramble tournament.

The golfers were divided into groups of five with the players shooting each line from the previous best shot.

Local golf pro Howard Vickers and his team of Brian Day, Lee Mekelki, Ed Chymney and Bud Byram won the event with an 11 under score.

Second place went to Pat Webb, Rod Schultz, Al King, Virg Biske and Jeff Smith with an eight under score.

The tournament "worked out real great" according to Hal Meek, one of the organizers.

Meek said they had three and a half weeks to plan the tournament and get the celebrities lined up. They included former NHL great Glenn Hall, Cowboy Bill Flett, Charlie Huddy, Randy Gregg, Dave Semenko, Don Jackson, Dave Hunter, Clare Drake, Mark Messier and sports broadcasters Wes Montgomery and Al McCain.

Next year Meek says they have confirmed the attendance of Wayne Gretzky in the tournament.

Another one of the organizers was Cowboy Bill Flett himself.

"Anytime anybody can do anything for the handicapped it's great," Flett said after the tournament.

Flett opened the tournament after landing in an ultra-light aircraft on the fourth hole and then riding his horse up to the clubhouse.

"It's a first class tournament, one that everyone will want to come back to," Flett added.

Flett said he was also happy the celebrities "showed up for the cause."

"They came because they knew it was a great cause."

Before the tournament began several members from the Beehive had a chance to meet the celebrities and get a few autographs.

The winners (left to right) were Bud Byram, Ed Chymney, Lee Mekelki, Brian Day and Howard Vickers, presented with the trophy by Cowboy Flett.

Looking for boarders

Training horses is Anderson's business

By Frank Ryan

Have you got a horse you can't handle? Then, John Anderson could be the man to see. Anderson has set up shop at Ben DeJong's Northside Meadows (three miles north of Drayton Valley on Highway 58). He's set up for horse training and boarding, specializing in reining and farrier service.

Working with horses has always been a big part of Anderson's life style.

He got his start teaching riding lessons at a holiday farm near Edville. In the mid-70's he spent four seasons as foreman at a stable in Banff where he did the training and guiding.

This was followed by two years at Cochrane and another season at Bashaw, working with horses. In between those jobs, Anderson took a four-month farrier course at Old College. Anderson is confident all this experience will help him now.

The Hanna, Alberta native who lived at Rimby in the early 70's, is excited about the facilities he has to work with at Northside Meadows.

"This is a super set-up for training and boarding horses. It's one of the best outside facilities I've ever seen", Anderson claims.

If he had a choice, Anderson prefers to work with a green horse.

"I like to take a horse that no one else can handle. There's a lot of personal satisfaction involved in getting a horse to do things your way", Anderson says.

In his years around horses, Anderson has found that about 80 per cent of them are spoiled, one way or another.

His training includes working with the horse's feet, making it learn to stand still, fitting the saddle and bridle, getting the horse to turn around and go ahead and getting control of the head, shoulders and hips.

In three or four months you should have a horse broke", Anderson says.

"If you can't control the feet, you don't have a horse. Once you get control of the feet, you can do almost anything", Anderson says.

Getting the horse's respect is also important. "A lot of horses take a whole lot of time. At first, you ask the colt to do something. After two or three times, you tell them what to do", Anderson says. It is part of getting the horse.

During the past couple of months Anderson has been working from 7 a.m. till dark with 22 horses. Some of these horses were at Northside Meadows to be trained, while others were boarding.

"I'd like to get another 10 on a regular basis", Anderson explained.

If you're looking for someone to train that colt, teach an old horse new tricks or need winter board facilities...just call John Anderson at 542.8782.

Must be members

Legion needs dart players

They get right to the point. But that's what the members of the Drayton Valley dart club do best.

The club, being run out of the local Legion, plays darts every Tuesday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. The club is looking for members but first they must also be members of the Legion to participate.

We want as many as we can get," says Mike McGee president of the club.

McGee said the club has been "organized" for about a year and they hope to hold at least two tournaments during the winter.

Neal Gascon, a spokesman for the club, said last year they had about 20 members and are hoping for about 30 members this year.

Gascon says any Legion member who wants to join can come down on Tuesdays or contact him at 545-3496 or Mike McGee at 542-3819.

Five teams in junior hockey

The Central Alberta Junior B Hockey League has a new governor.

Dr. Harvey Trevelyan, from Barrhead, will take over the duties from the departing Dave Danks.

Trevelyan was accepted as the new league governor at last week's meeting in the Westwinds. Several other items were discussed at the four hour marathon meeting which saw the teams ratify their schedule for the upcoming season.

The league will consist of five teams: Drayton Valley, Barrhead, Rimbey, Rocky and Hinton. The Hobbema team that was in the league last year and the Lacombe team which earlier tried to join, both jumped over to another junior league.

The teams will play 40 games each over the season with Drayton Valley playing five three-game weekends.

The Drayton Valley Blades will play their first game on October 25 when they host Rocky. They play host again to Barrhead on October 26 before travelling to Rimbey on October 27.

Blades' president, Les Sinclair and coach Simon Kelly represented the team at the meeting.

Labor Day ball tourney

Orioles dump Oilers in final

The Barrhead Orioles romped to three easy victories last weekend as they took top honors at the Drayton Valley Oilers Labor Day weekend baseball tourney.

The Orioles collected 12 runs on just seven hits and eight Orioles errors in the first inning as they won the final game 18-8. The game was called in the fifth because of the 10-run rule.

Barrhead earned a trip to the final with a 10-1 win over the Easford Colts on Saturday and a 13-2 win over Tenash Sunday morn'ing.

The host Oilers also won a pair of games—10-1 over the Peers Boss Truckers as pitcher Gerald Baerbold hurled a one-hitter and edged Dayland 9-8 in their other game. A home run by Ken Baird and a four-run sixth inning helped the Oilers to their squeaker over Dayland.

After their opening game loss in Barrhead, the Colts edged the Easford Colts 10-9 and blanked Dayland 7-0 to win the B final. Gary Kreye threw a three-hitter at Dayland in the final game.

The Oilers led 3-0 after their first time at bat in the first against Barrhead as Don Zomer opened the game by belting the first pitch over the fence. But, the roof fell in when the Orioles came to the plate, as they booted the ball around eight times and all but gave away the game. It was 14-4 after two innings and Barrhead ended it all with three runs in the fifth. Ken Baird also hit a home run in the game for the Oilers.

Bachelor degree registration accepted up to Friday

Registrations will be accepted until Friday for the second year of the Athabasca University bachelor of administration degree program.

The second of a five year program is available through the Pembina Educational Consortium in Drayton Valley.

"If people join now, they will miss the first year, but they can catch up with home study", explains consortium executive director Joe MacLellan.

The first half of the course which includes accounting, economics and computer science runs from September to January with the second half consisting of accounting, organizational behavior and sociology running from January to April.

Thirty people...such as professors, all executives, housewives, bank managers, utility managers and students just out of school took the program last year.

"We could handle 25 more people",

MacLellan says. Classrooms are available at the consortium and also at the high school.

Instructors for the three-night-a-week program come out of Edmonton. "It would be hard to find people with the qualifications otherwise", MacLellan explained.

"This is one of only a handful of courses like this in the province", the consortium executive director stated.

Success of the course has been like a dream come true for MacLellan.

"It originally wasn't on the agenda. We had to make a formal application and we didn't get a lot of encouragement. But, it worked out satisfactory", MacLellan explained. "I was always convinced the market was here", he added.

However, the continued success of the second year depends on more registrations which close this Friday.

People who took the first year are saying, they're glad for the opportunity instead of going into Edmonton or Calgary.

The Pembina Educational Consortium is located at 5225-55A street, or call Chris Perry, Mary Lou Cebulak or Joe MacLellan at 542-5650.

County expands bus service

Students using the in-town and village school bus transportation service during the 1985-86 school term will be charged $30 for a yearly pass.

The Board of Education decided at its meeting on Aug. 20 to leave the rates unchanged from the previous year.

Superintendent of Schools, Marv Thachuk, said the transportation program will not be dramatically increased this year, though it will be expanded to include Drayton Valley.

The convenience service is open to all children at designated bus stops. Transportation isn't a door-to-door service.

The county system must provide transportation for children who live 4.8 km from school but is not obligated to pick up children who live any closer, Thachuk said.

Regulations also stipulate a school bus shall not make a stop closer than 2.4 km from a school. The county used to establish boundaries around its schools for transportation service purposes, Thachuk said.

Students who lived within the boundary weren't eligible for bus transportation.

In some cases this meant a student from one home could ride the bus while a neighbor couldn't.

The system was difficult to administer, Thachuk said, and was also considered unfair.

The new policy works well, he said. If students living closer than 2.4 km from school wish to walk to a bus stop further than the established 2.4 km distance, they will be provided transportation if they have purchased a pass.

The provision of transportation is contingent on the availability of room on the bus but the system can always re-route a bus if required, Thachuk said.

Twist and shout. Move it all about. Fitness is in. Fitness is out.

Town paving starts

There is going to be a flurry of street paving in Drayton Valley.

Town engineer Manpreet Saran said starting this week, there will be paving going on all over town. The paving should be finished by the end of October.

On 50th Avenue, paving will go from 50th Street out to Poplar Ridge. A section of 50th Street from 46th Avenue to 55th Avenue will also be repaved.

Down town, 51st and 52nd Avenues will be paved. As well, 51st and 52nd Streets will be repaved.

In front of the St Anthony's and Frank Maddock schools, 43rd Street will be repaved. A proposal to widen the road past those schools will not be going ahead. The proposal had been dependent on financial help from the schools, which has not come about, said Saran.

Out in Poplar Ridge 80th Street will be paved. As well, sewer and water lines are being put out there to service about 200 to 250 units in that area with town assistance.

New sport

Local man is into mud-slinging job

By Neil Speers

There is a new arena for mud-slinging besides the political one.

Len Regenwetter, who runs D.V. Nissan, has been involved in the recently created sport for four-wheel drivers which try to get through a pit of mud 3 1/2 feet deep and 240 feet long.

Though mud-slinging is a fairly new sport, having started in the U.S. four years ago and then spreading across Canada from Saskatchewan, it takes in a good sized audience.

With the truck "Ricksha", Regenwetter has been seen at the Edmonton Coliseum and the Calgary Saddledome this year.

Though Ricksha has not won any contests, Regenwetter is not surprised because the competi- tion have engines with anything up to 800 horsepower, while Ricksha only has 100.

The truck was built by Regenwetter from the tires up, and would be legal on the street except for the tires. They are for a small tractor and are 9 1/2 inches wide by 48 inches tall.

"I started with my own subframe and built it up from there."

The major difference between it and almost every other racer is the engine being mounted in back. "That's what surprises everyone," commented Regenwetter. Many people apparently walk up and look under the hood, to find an empty space.

The rear engine concept has been prevalent in all three of the four-wheel drives he has built. The first, a dune buggy, was the first vehicle he entered in a mud-slinging.

"One year at Warburg they had a mud pit and someone suggested I go in it with the dune buggy." It only cost him about $2,000 to build the Ricksha, but then labor was not counted for. It took "about a year of evenings, Saturdays and holidays."

To make Ricksha more competitive, Regenwetter is going to "swallow some pride" and put in a domestic V8 engine, which will be the only non-Edison part. He feels this is okay though.

because the other vehicles, which can cost up to $20,000, have way more power.

But the rear engine is the most important aspect of the truck. Another four-wheel drive he competes with on obstacle courses won three trophies on the May long weekend.

Even the go-cart under construction for his son is going to be rear-engineered.

Regenwetter is drawn to these vehicles because "half is the sport, and the other half is trying out an idea I had

Getty gets nod

Don Getty was the unofficial winner at the Drayton Valley Progressive Conservatives constituency meeting last week.

Highlight of the meeting was the selection of 20 delegates to attend the Tory leadership convention during the Thanksgiving weekend. The 20 delegates, selected from a slate of 44, included Bob Booth, Bob Boscher, Bud Byram, Nina and Otto Hansen, Ken Koshkous, Lorne Pinkuski, Dr. Jim Anderson, Alex Blais, Allan Horne, Wendy Sekura, Lloyd Thachuk, Betty McGee, Norman Swendewald and Hamdon Hamdon, all of Drayton Valley; Lorne Cripps and Maryann MacIsobrook of Winfield. Three youth delegates—Kosman Cripps of Winfield, Ron Schure of Drayton Valley and Andrea Willows of Buck Lake are included in the final 20 selections.

Of the 20 delegates selected, none indicated their support for Getty while the remaining 11 were uncommitted.

Senior art

Flag design needed

Senior high school art students will be given the opportunity this fall to design a flag for the County of Parkland.

Coun. George Sewell asked at the meeting of the Board of Education's General Committee on Aug. 13 if the design of a flag couldn't become a school contest.

Three new flag poles have recently been erected in front of the county building, he pointed out, and the county has talked for quite some time about setting its own flag.

The county flag poles are now flying the Canadian and two provincial flags.

Superintendent of Schools Mary Tharbut said the competition would probably be restricted to senior high school art students though junior high school students may be included.

The students would be instructed to incorporate the county logo in their design.

Postmaster Le-Roy Robinson with Berrymore boxes.

Post office expansion

More green boxes for mail

The increasing population of Drayton Valley may result in more of the green, street corner mail boxes.

Referred to as "suburban service", the post office could be expanding that facet of the operation with new handles about 700 Drayton Valley residents, according to Postmaster Le-Roy Robinson.

"There is a waiting list of about 100 people for the 'lock boxes' located in the post office building, said Robinson.

These people are waiting for any openings in the 3000 lock boxes.

Despite some people's fears, "We don't leave mail in a suburban service box if it is not locked," stated Robinson.

The post office is also putting in another type of lock box which rolls into the post office lobby where it will be locked up with special equipment, said Robinson.

These boxes were brought in to handle the extra customers from the Berrymore area where the post office is being closed. Left over boxes in the rolling unit will go to reduce the waiting list by about 60 to 70 people, commented Robinson.

There has been some grumbling about the closing of the Berrymore office, but Robinson said he "equates most of the complaints to change."

"The trend is now to close offices like this," where they are not located in a town and which cost more to run than is raised in revenues, explained Robinson.

The major complaint the post office receives is about late mail.

It should "only take a two or three days to go from Edmonton to any point in Alberta, said Robinson.

Robinson But, he added, sometimes mail gets backlogged in the larger processing plants in Edmonton, which can mean delays of several days.

As well, Air Mail takes an extra day or two to reach eastern provinces.

However, most mail is not late. "I check the date stamp, and most of the mail is two or three days" from when it was mailed, said Robinson.

Three injured

Three people suffered injuries in a weekend head-on collision near Tomahawk.

Names of the three, who were all sent to hospital are being withheld by the Drayton Valley RCMP as their investigation continues.

According to the RCMP, the accident happened about 2 p.m. on a rural road west of Tomahawk.

The three people, two males and a 17-month-old infant were taken to hospital in Drayton Valley. One of the males was later transferred to the University hospital in Edmonton while the other was treated and released.

Other than this one serious accident, both the RCMP and the fire department report fairly quiet long weekends.

Merschel's handiwork

Local couple engrave distinctive signs

By Neil Speers

It is a 'sign' of distinction which is made by Lynn and Rudy Merschel from Drayton Valley.

Since last November, the couple have been making wooden signs engraved with names and/or pictures.

On the 16 acres of land where they live, there is enough livestock and garden to make the family almost totally self sufficient. It is located just half a road out of Drayton Valley. Literally across the road from them are homes which are considered legally in town.

The garage where the signs are made once housed the family as they built the house by themselves. They even made the siding.

Many innovations are built into the house such as in the kitchen were overhead beams house a set of fluorescent lights.

Now, the garage has hand built tools in almost every corner of the shop and many signs are in various states of completion. Many were just waiting for the finish to dry.

The biggest sign they have completed is almost 15 feet long made for Flint Construction. Then again, the smallest they have made was only a few inches long and was put on a dog house.

Cutting metal bars to be welded

Rudy has been working for the town for 27 years.

Most of the carving and engraving is done in Rudy's garage shop. Some of the work is done by router, but by far, the 'most is done freehand.'

The signs are made out of California Red wood, which they have to go into Edmonton for. Tables and chandeliers made of hand built wagon wheels are another product Rudy can turn out, though he says there is not much market for these because "people would rather buy cheap factory-built furniture."

Custom hand painting and the finishing is handled by Lynn, who is also proficient at oil painting needlework and many other handicrafts.

Lynn is also the manager of the Drayton Valley Farmers Market, which she has done for the last three years.

The market also provides a good show place for the signs, which must be custom ordered. The cost of the signs varies as they are priced by the letter and the size of the wood.

Being the manager of the market, she must

Rudi standing with his 15 foot sign reaching the length of his workshop.

Rudi working on sign.

make sure the few basic rules are kept.

"You make it, grow it or produce it. Then you can sell it," Lynn said.

As well, Lynn travels to several nearby farmers markets each week to set up a booth. But she says word of mouth is "still one of the best forms of advertisement" for their business.

Signs made by the Merschels have gone as far as San Francisco and Nova Scotia.

The busiest time of year for them was Christmas. But they also make many signs year round for weddings, anniversaries, birthdays and most other events.

Both of the Merschels wonder at people who say they are bored. This couple has to make time for each of their projects.

Chapin and Murray married in Breton

By Shell Carson
196-2280

On August 18, Faith Covenant Church, Breton, was the scene of a lovely summer wedding when Debbie Chapin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Chapin of Breton and Owen Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Murray of Aliske, exchanged vows before Pastor Lloyd Ales.

Organist for the occasion was Mrs. Verne Monts and soloist was Martha Meyers. The church was decorated in arrangements of gladioli and carnations following a white and burgundy color scheme.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length white silk gown trimmed with beads around the neck and sleeves. The gown was complemented by a long train. She wore a white hat with a short veil and accessories were a gold chain and pearls and white shoes. She carried a bouquet of burgundy roses and baby's breath.

The bride was attended by Robin Wardley, who wore a floor-length burgundy gown and carried a fan of burgundy and white silk flowers.

Flower girl, April Murray wore a floor-length white gown matching the bride's and carried a basket of burgundy silk flowers with a band of matching flowers in her hair.

The groom wore a black suit set off by a white and burgundy boutonniere. The best man, Danny Westlin wore black pants and a grey blazer with a white boutonniere.

Ushers were Deryl Kachelie and Dwayne

The groom's mother chose a light blue short sleeved three-quarter length dress with matching accessories and a red and white corsage.

The reception was held at the Breton Community Center. Master of ceremonies was Mitch Anthony, who also gave the toast to the bride. Willie Hest of Aliske gave the toast to the groom.

The heart-shaped wedding cake was decorated in clusters of burgundy and white flowers topped with two white doves nestled between two silver rings.

Poems were read by Graedina Chapin and Frieda Parvato and violin solo by Mr. Will Huber and a song by Mrs. Mollie Hagan entertained the guests.

Corrine Black from Edmonton was in charge of the guest book.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Mildred Murray from Springbank, Calgary, grandmother of the groom, Mrs. Hettie Chapin from Edmonton, grandmother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Maden of Bengough, Sask.; Jim and Cherry Orr, Slave Lake; Boris and Ted Igna, Ardmore, Carl and Susan Fytsank, Springbank, Calgary.

A gift opening followed the reception and later a dance with music supplied by "Sounds Good".

A honeymoon was taken to Montana, Utah, Fairmont and Radium Hot Springs. Debbie and Owen will make their new home at a farm near Aliske.

FINANCING ALBERTA BUSINESS

The Alberta Opportunity Company provides financial and counselling assistance to small business enterprises

A Concrete Solution

Following a number of years in the concrete products industry, Bill

Ross decided to invest his designing skills into a business of his own.

In 1974, he established Tri-Hard Concrete Products Ltd. in St. Paul specializing in concrete septic tanks for urban and rural use. High start-up costs led Bill to apply for a loan through conventional lenders.

After refusals, Bill approached AOC with his business plan and sales projections. AOC realized the capabilities of Tri-Hard Concrete Products and agreed to finance it.

In its first year of operation, the company manufactured 300 tanks. Today Tri-Hard employs 15 Albertans who produce nearly 1,000 tanks annually.

If you have a sound business idea, but are unable to obtain financing through regular sources, call or visit your nearest AOC office and ask for our brochure, Financing Alberta Business.

FAME

COMING UP — What's new this fall? Well, on the theory that the world loves a misfit, there's a "Misfit of Science" (NBC, Friday, 9-10), in which a team of "world losers" fights to make the world safe for the offbeat.

The traditional family, which has taken a considerable pounding in recent years, may be poised for a comeback. In the wake of the success of "The Cosby Show," two new traditional families (complete with mother, father and children — all living under the same roof) will be making their television debuts in "Growing Pains" (ABC, Tuesday, 9-10) and "Charles & Company" (CBS, Wednesday, 9-9:30).

There's a show for those who look back fondly on the more free-wheeling '60s as well: "Hornetown" (CBS, Tuesday, 9-9:30), which got a jump on its competition by premiering in August — is about a group of college friends from the '60s and their adjustments (or lack thereof) to the very different '80s.

High-profile directors seem ready to move over to the small screen. Steven Spielberg, has promised that big-name Hollywood directors, including Clint Eastwood, Martin Scorsese, Brian de Palma and Spielberg himself, will be directing segments of his "Amazing Stories" (NBC, Sunday, 8-8:30) anology series.

But some things never change. Private eyes will abound as usual. Robert L'Heureux ("Vegas") will return to series duty in "Sparrow for Hire" (ABC, Friday, 10-11). Over on CBS, Edward Woodward will run a one-man revenge service out of his Manhattan apartment in "The Equalizer" (Wednesday, 10-11). And ABC will unveil "MacGyver" (Sunday, 8-9), with Richard Dean Anderson as the man people turn to when all else fails.

Over on the other side of the law is "Sir Crazy" (CBS, Wednesday, 8-9), featuring two convicts, tediously convicted, of course, for a murder.

And for those who like big sprawling sagas, there's "Our Family Honor" (ABC, Tuesday, 10-11), which follows the three-generation power struggle between a family of cops and a family of syndicate chieftains.
